MRS. NABORS TAKES STAND; STORY OF HUSBAND'S ABUSE.

She Says He Was Seldom Sober and Never Treated Her Right—He Brought Lennox to the Home.

OTHER WITNESSES ON STAND

Defense Attempts to Show Nabors Man of Dissolute Habits Who Did Not Treat His Wife Right—No Other Cases on Trial.

UNIONTOWN, March 9.—The suit of Alonzo Nabors against George Lennox for $25,000 for alienating the affections of Mrs. Catherine Nabors from her husband is still on trial before Judge Van Swearingen. The defense today is attempting to prove that Nabors was of intemperate habits and abused his wife.

Mrs. Nabors, husband of the plaintiff, took the stand shortly before noon. She testified she worked four years for Andrew Lennox, father of George Lennox. She married Nabors in May, 1903, she said. Her married life, she continued, has been unpleasant. Nabors not drunk the first day they went to housekeeping, on May 30, when he went down town and celebrated. She said he drank all the time. She said Nabors had been married before and had a daughter. He would bring this girl home to live with them, saying the daughter was of royal blood and his wife not fit to associate with her. Mrs. Nabors declared her husband continued to drink at all times and not only abused her, but members of her family as well. Among other things, Mrs. Nabors said, he tried to slap her, but he did not finish that task. She further said that Nabors himself brought Lennox there to board in September, 1905. She objected to it, Lennox being a railroad and hard to work for. She didn't want the extra work as she was doing all the chores then. She said her husband only worked about seven months of the year and it was up to her to provide for him when he was idle.

Referring to the present trouble Mrs. Nabors said in March, 1907, Nabors' father died and Nabors tried to borrow $100 from Lennox. She overheard the conversation and told Lennox not to make the loan. Nabors decided to use his own money to bury his father but told his wife and Lennox that it would be a "damned deal" for $100 to them. Lennox had loaned Nabors $75 to pay off a note. Mrs. Nabors said she asked her husband how he was going to pay this off. "You can pay that off any way you please," he is alleged to have replied.

The first witness this morning after Lennox left the stand was Mrs. Harry Parks. She is a neighbor of the Nabors. Her testimony was to effect that Nabors frequently came home intoxicated and attempted to pick quarrels with his wife. She said Nabors often came to her house when his wife was there and called his wife abusive names.

Harry Parks was also called. He testified that Nabors, six or seven years ago, came home drunk at a time Parks was at the Nabors home. Nabors, Parks said, told him: "Don't take any account of my wife. She is a d-d fool anyhow." Parks testified that Nabors in 1908, came past Parks' house when Mrs. Nabors was there. Nabors then called his wife abusive names. At that time Mrs. Nabors heard him and threatened to take a fence pulling to him if he didn't go home and keep quiet. Nabors left.

Other witnesses testified along the same line. They said she worked out a great deal and was a good worker. The Nabors case, it is expected, will go to the jury some time this afternoon.

The petition of Russell E. Stillwagon to be constable in the Fifth Ward, Connelville, was presented this morning and the appointment was made. Bond in the sum of $500 was furnished with D. F. Gilard as bondsman.

The petition of Thomas H. Hudson, guardian of Walter M. Hopwood and Mary Hopwood, minor children of George Hopwood, deceased, praying to be allowed to join with the other heirs in making a deed, resulted in an order being made today permitting him to join in making a deed for the sale of property in S. H. Crawford for $2,000. Attorney Hudson gave bond in the sum of $250 for each child.

Deputy Sheriff John Hunkeler and Elizabeth Bangard, mother of the county jail, left this morning with Rosa Cavalliti, a Howard woman from Kona, and Lucinda Williams of Connelville. The women were taken to Dixmont.

"By April 1 or April 10, at the latest," declared Mr. Bush, "we expect to break ground for the extension from Cumberland to Connelville, 33 miles, where connection will be made with the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad into Pittsburg. Unless obstacles now unforeseen are encountered we will be running through trains from Baltimore to the 'Smoky City' within 30 months, and the Pittsburg & Lake Erie will send a vast amount of tonnage to Baltimore."

"The route selected is the shortest between Baltimore and Pittsburg and it will be our aim to give the shipper and traveling public service equal to that furnished by the best railroads of the United States."

WEDNESDAY EVE'G, MAR. 9, 1910.

THE WESTERN MARYLAND AND GREATER CONNELLSVILLE.

The Conneltsville people have an abiding faith in the future of their town. That faith is not a mere dream, not an extravagant fancy, not a frenzied vision. It is a faith founded upon the natural advantages and resources of Conneltsville as an industrial center, a faith which has always withstood the shocks of adversity and the assaults of jealousy; a faith which has already found substantial fulfillment and which promises in the early future to find much more. In short, it is a faith built upon the Rock.

The advent of the Western Maryland railroad, the immediate construction of which is announced, will in itself under present plans materially to the employment, the population, the business and the wealth of Conneltsville, to say nothing of the added impetus it will give to the establishment of additional industries here. Already such industries are knocking vigorously at our door, and they are being cordially received by our active Chamber of Commerce.

The policy of this body has been more business-like than most organizations of this character. The directors have shunned publicity concerning their negotiations. They do not believe in hunting with a brass band. They have made very little noise in the outside world. The Conneltsville people must not think that they are indifferent to the public interests, or that they are not earnestly promoting them. They are actively on the job and they are entitled to all the faith we have ever had in the town's progress. Every industry which presents itself to their consideration is not to be trampled nor possible. It takes time to investigate and negotiate. Many industries will perhaps call before one is chosen.

But that we are destined soon to have new industries in Conneltsville on an extensive scale is not to be doubted. They are on their way. The accepted time is at hand. The town is getting ready to take a long step forward.

Keep an eye on Greater Conneltsville.

THE GRIEF THAT KILLS: THE RIGHTS OF MOURNERS.
The grief that kills should not be encouraged, especially in children. The death of a little girl in Mount Pleasant from excessive grief over the loss of the mother whom she loved with all the strength of her young nature shows that childish grief is quite as intense as that of later and stronger years. The case was most sad because it was no doubt unavoidable. We mention it only to emphasize our opening sentence.

It has at different times and in different places been the custom of the community to insist upon a prolonged period of mourning over the departure of relatives. Hysterical grief was encouraged during the period between death and interment, and that period was often prolonged as much as possible for the purpose of permitting the morbidly curious from all over the country to come and view the remains and see how the family behaved. After the funeral followed a period of from one to several years when the women wore hideous black garments, though it frequently happened that these habitments of woe were donned out of fear that custom would criticize rather than out of any love or respect for the dead.

But this ostentatious ingenuitously is becoming much relaxed. The people are beginning to understand that neither the dress nor the deportment of persons "in mourning" are any real indication of their love and respect for their dear ones dead; that those things are matters sacredly personal to the stricken ones; that others have no right to intrude therein either with advice or criticism, and, finally, that those who do so intrude invite rebuke.

A man's house is his castle and his sorrows are his own; and the ruthless assassin who would raze the walls of the one or bare the nakedness of the other is either an enemy undeserving of quarter or a meddlesome fool seeking trouble which he should surely find.

THE THREATS OF AN UNOFFICIAL ORGAN.

The hitherto somewhat official, but now altogether unofficial organ of Conneltsville municipal administration, intimates that the majority membership of the Town Council will have to govern their conduct of municipal affairs to the liking of the organization or be open to the appellation of The Dirty Dozen, which in the event of any departure from its orders it has ready prepared to apply.

The threat is entirely out of place. The Conneltsville organization will so regard it and so disregard it. The members who participated in the organization of the present Town Council were not only moved by the best intentions, but they represented public sentiment in Conneltsville, and their subsequent course will be dictated by that same public sentiment.

That sentiment elected them to the positions they now hold. They could not in common decency and self-respect disregard it, and they would not if they could. They are honest men mindful of their duties and daring to do them faithfully.

Our gratuitously insulting contemporary can rest assured that The Dirty Dozen will do their duties quite as honestly and efficiently as those for whom the Official Organ has during the past year been painfully anxious to stand as sponsor and spokesman.

The swaggering threat of the Unofficial Organ, that the members of the Conneltsville organization had better beware of its wrath, will fall upon contemptuous ears. Its wrath never frightened anybody but very weak persons.

LIBRARY NEEDS AND PUBLIC DUTY.

The Carnegie Free Library of Conneltsville is in a rather desperate state because of insufficient appropriations for maintenance, and its needs should receive the serious consideration of the Town Council and the School Board.

The Town Council last year levied a library tax of one-half mill, while the School Board made a lump appropriation of $1,500. The trustees of the library think that by dint of close economy and great prudence they can run the institution successfully during the coming year on the revenue derived from a special library tax of one-half mill levied by each of the bodies mentioned, making one mill tax upon the whole town.

The Town Council will doubtless be perfectly willing to contribute in the same proportion as it did last year, and the School Board ought to be perfectly willing to give as much, especially in view of the semi-educational character of the library service, which has in a large measure become a part of the school work.

The library is an established public institution. It has had the endorsement of the citizens, at the polls. Its management is practicing the utmost economy. Under all these circumstances, its request is most reasonable and should have cheerful compliance.

The borough authorities of Smithfield perhaps have an exaggerated idea of the increased cost of municipal administration on account of the heavy traffic, but their views reflect a very decided opposition to the granting of a license. A special increase of borough taxes from 4 to 10 mills upon the dollar would be a more reasonable and should be presented to the license court.

The School Treasury is nearly empty, but the new Tax Duplicate is on its way.

The municipal administration of all the important Fayette county towns is now in Republican hands because the taxpayers are Republicans. They have had enough of Democratic "reform."

CIVIL COURT.

And Bills Returned by the Grand Jury on Tuesday.

UNIONTOWN, March 2.—In the suit of L. L. Leech, for the use of S. H. Rothamel, against E. D. Fulton, the defense Tuesday secured a rule on the plaintiff to show cause why judgment should not be opened and the defendant let into a defense, also why an issue should not be framed to determine the validity of judgment in question, and, if found valid, what amount is actually due thereon.

The rule was issued following presentation of petition by the defendant. According to the defense set forth in the petition the judgment was entered on a bond for $1,200 given to secure the payment of a note. Fulton says that upon maturity of the note, for the on a bond for $1,200 given to secure given Leech as collateral, he obtained from S. H. Rothamel, a loan of $1,200, giving Rothamel a note for the amount, dated September 25, 1909, payable four months after date. The $1,200 obtained from Rothamel was given to Leech, thereby paying off the Leech note. This payment, the defense claims, rendered null and void the $1,200 bond given to secure payment of the Leech note and that this is the bond which was assigned to Rothamel and upon which judgment was later entered.

The suit of Dora J. Wisting against Abraham Maunet et al, brought to secure possession of her husband's life insurance, set for trial Thursday, has been continued.

ANDREWS THREATENED WOMAN WITH CHAIR

He Drew Stiff Sentence This Morning From Burgess Evans in Police Court.

James Andrews drew one of the longest sentences down in police court as the result of his sentence in Yezeback's restaurant along Water street last evening. Andrews was sentenced to serve 72 hours on each of three charges.

Andrews is alleged to have threatened Mrs. Yezeback with a chair after refusing to pay for his meal. He denied the allegation but admitted being so drunk he did not know where he was arrested. Andrews is an umbrella mender and spent most of the winter at Smithfield.

Three drunks were given the usual sentence this morning.

WOMEN'S Moderate Priced Shoes

We place great stress on the values of our Women's Moderate Priced Shoes—the $2.25 and $2.50 grades. From the wearing standpoint there is no reason for disappointment—you can't use the same grade of leathers and fail to get good service—the shoes are absolutely solid leather throughout. The styles are attractive because they are up-to-date. You get good fitting goods—the lasts have the correct measurements—the shoe-making and details of making are such as to make the shoes right. You can have them in button or bluchers. We recommend them as splendid $2.25 and $2.50 values.

SENATE STARTS FOOD INQUIRY.

Seeking Cause for the Present High Cost of Living.

WASHINGTON DEALERS HEARD

J. C. Walker Tells Committee He Believes Combination Fixes Prices On Butter—Says Public Has No Right to Howl About High Prices.

Washington, March 9.—The senate committee investigating into the causes of the higher cost of the necessities of life has begun its sessions. Washington merchants were called to testify.

Walter Brown, retail meat dealer, told the committee that retail prices of meats were about the same as they were five years ago. He said he bought his meats in Maryland and Virginia on the hoof and did his own slaughtering.

When asked by Senator Simmons why dealers who bought from western packers could afford to sell as cheaply as he could after he had dealt directly with the farmer, Mr. Brown replied:

"The packers save everything. They make a good profit off the parts of a bullock that we throw away. Therefore they can afford to sell to the dealers at a price which enables them to compete with us. The packers could put us out of business if they desired but we are too small for them to notice."

Mr. Brown thought the public was not justified in howling about high cost of meats.

J. C. Walker, another dealer, told the committee that beef had advanced 15 per cent and poultry and pork 50 to 100 per cent in ten years. He said he had made inquiry from Armour & Co. to learn why meat had gone up and was told that this was because there were 25,000,000 less hogs and 10,000,000 less cattle in the country than there were ten years ago.

Senator Gallinger asked the witness to state his personal views as to the cause of the increased price of farm products. Mr. Walker declared he believed the national prosperity had caused people to rush to the cities from the farms and that there was an underproduction which could not supply the increased demand.

Questioned as to the wholesale price of butter and eggs, Mr. Walker said that on the day after it was announced that the senate was to make an investigation the price of eggs in the country dropped 7 cents a pound.

"What, in your personal opinion, does that indicate to you?" asked Chairman Lodge.

"It looks to me like a combination fixes the price," replied Mr. Walker. Mr. Walker thought the advent of cold storage had made it possible for people of all classes to have eggs throughout the winter. He argued that 15 cents a dozen was not an unreasonable price to pay for eggs in the winter and recalled the time when they brought $1 a dozen.

PRESIDENT DEFENDS

Anti-Injunction Bill, Calls Manufacturers for Criticism.

Washington, March 9.—President Taft indirectly takes the National Association of Manufacturers to task for the statement it has issued criticizing the administration's anti-injunction bill.

Representative Moon of Pennsylvania, the author of the bill, has written a letter to President Taft answering the criticisms of the manufacturers and Mr. Taft has made public a communication in which he makes it plain that the anti-injunction bill now before congress is most important and fulfills the pledge made by the Republican party. The president concurs fully with Mr. Moon in his view of the injustice of the manufacturers' criticism.

The Pennsylvania representative points out in his letter to the president that the only provisions of the bill that are the subject of criticism are, first, the one that confers upon the court or judge the power to issue restraining orders with notice in certain cases; and, second, the one that provides that the restraining order so issued shall expire within seven days unless action is taken by the complainant to prosecute the same. The first provision is said by the manufacturers' association to be uncalled for, unnecessary and a reflection on federal judges.

Western Union Telegraph Company Holds One-Third of Stock.

New York, March 9.—R. C. Clowry, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, affirmed the report that his company had acquired a large minority in the stock of the American District Telegraph company of New Jersey.

Mr. Clowry said this had taken place about March 1. He said that they had acquired a little over one-third of the entire stock, which amount virtually to controlling interest.

SENATORS PROBING THE COST OF LIVING; ELKINS, WHO INTRODUCED RESOLUTION.

SENATOR ELKINS

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Leading among the agencies, national and state, that are trying to learn why living costs so much is the senate committee appointed to investigate the high prices of food, clothing, etc. The members of the committee, (shown in the picture from left to right) are as follows: Clarke of Arkansas, Democrat; Johnston of Alabama, Democrat; Smoot of Utah, Republican; Lodge of Massachusetts, chairman, Republican; Gallinger of New Hampshire, Republican; Crawford of South Dakota, Republican; McCumber of North Dakota, Republican; Simmons of North Carolina, Democrat. The committee is acting under a resolution introduced in the senate by Senator Elkins of West Virginia, Republican, but Senator Elkins is not taking part in the investigation. He has a grievance against the senate for the manner in which his resolution was treated, declaring that it was held up too long in committee.

License Court Hearings In Somerset

Develop a Number of Remonstrances.

SOMERSET, Pa., March 9.—Judge Koser presided at the annual session of the license court Monday. There are on file 50 petitions for liquor licenses, 77 of which number are for retail, 100 for wholesale and three for brewer's licenses. About 30 of the townships and boroughs in Somerset county are represented. There are about 12 new applicants on the list.

There were 18 remonstrances filed, a rather large number. Of this number four remonstrances were against applicants in Windber, three against applicants from Ross, one against M. E. Klure, who is an applicant for retail liquor license for a new hotel at Jerome, one against applicants from Ross, three against William M. Bowser of Meyersdale, proprietor of the Bowser Hotel, and two against Robert Lochrie, who is an applicant for a new retail license at Jerome 2 and 3.

Of the Windber remonstrances, the first one protests against increasing the number of licenses in that town and is signed by 125 citizens. Three applicants for new alcohol licenses called forth this remonstrance.

Of the three remonstrances against liquor license in Ross, one is against L. W. Boehm, proprietor of the Coal Exchange Hotel and is signed by 200 citizens. The second is signed by 175 citizens and is opposed by J. J. Wasson, proprietor of the Grand Central Hotel. The third remonstrance takes the form of a letter from Telford Lewis, Vice President and General Manager of the Knickerbocker Smokeless Coal Company, and is in favor of J. J. Wasson and opposed to L. W. Boehm.

Of the four remonstrances against the retail license of M. E. Klure, an applicant for a new hotel at Jerome, the first is signed by 21 citizens of Jerome township, the second by 101.

ATTACKS 14TH AMENDMENT

Mississippi Congressman Says It Was Never Legally Passed.

Washington, March 9.—That the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution were null and void was declared by a resolution introduced by Representative Sloan of Mississippi, which directs the attorney general to submit the question to the supreme court. These are the so-called reconstruction and negro citizenship amendments.

Mr. Sloan's resolution recites that the journal of the senate and house of the Thirty-ninth, Fortieth and Forty-first congresses show that the two amendments relating to the enfranchisement of the negro were not adopted in the two houses by a two-thirds vote and further that three-fourths of the several states did not ratify them as required by the constitution.

VICTIMS OF BLIZZARD

Bodies Found in Sleigh Frozen to Death.

Aberdeen, S. D., March 9.—Huddled in their sleigh the bodies of two women and a little child were found by the husband of one of the women. The three had been frozen to death by the blizzard which swept the Standing Rock reservation three weeks ago.

Mrs. Gilbert Major, her mother-in-law and her one-year-old son, in trying to drive from Mahto S. D., their home to a neighbor's place, were overtaken by the blizzard eight miles from home. They turned the team loose and huddled in the sleigh to wait for the storm to pass. They died there.

IN PENITENTIARY.

Former Pennsylvania State Officials Begin Sentences.

CONVICTED IN CAPITOL CASES

Philadelphia, March 9.—William P. Snyder, the former state auditor general, began last night to serve the two-year sentence passed upon him in the Dauphin county court for complicity in the state capitol scandal.

When the sentence was confirmed by the supreme court Snyder at once began preparations to undergo his imprisonment. James M. Shumaker, the other survivor of the four men convicted at the capitol exposure, began to serve his term this morning.

Snyder, accompanied by T. Larry Eyrer of Westchester, came to this city and went directly to the office of his attorney, Alfred S. Miller, where he surrendered himself to the sheriff.

Warden McKenty received him and after his clothing had been changed to the prison garb he was assigned to the cell which he will occupy. He will probably be assigned to clerical work.

"Not Guilty"—Shumaker. Johnstown, Pa., March 9.—"I can say with a clear conscience that I have been knowingly guilty of no wrongdoing in connection with this affair. But the courts of the state up to the tribunal of last resort have said that I must suffer punishment and I propose to take my medicine like a man."

Thus spoke James M. Shumaker of this city, former superintendent of grounds and buildings at Harrisburg, before leaving for Philadelphia to begin his two years' term prison sentence.

Mr. Shumaker is in better physical condition than he has been for a long time and said he does not look forward to his incarceration with any apprehension as to its effect upon his health.

WILL APPEAL ONCE MORE

Pittsburg Men Convicted of Grafting to Make Last Fight.

Pittsburg, March 9.—One more fight to keep themselves out of the penitentiary—that's the decision reached by all of the defendants convicted and sentenced in the councilmanic graft cases.

The state supreme court will be asked to allow appeals from the recent unanimous decision of the superior court in the cases of John F. Klein, William Brand, William Ramsey, Joseph G. Wasson and H. M. Bolger. A request for an appeal can be carried no higher than the supreme court and if the petitioners are refused all defendants will be in the Western penitentiary within the next few days.

ITCHING OF SCALP INTOLERABLE

Nearly Wild with Painful, Burning Eruption—Half Her Hair Fell Out and Combing It Was Torture—Feared She Would be Bald.

IN DESPAIR UNTIL CURED BY CUTICURA

"Just about two years ago, some form of humor appeared on my scalp. The beginning was a slight itching but it grew steadily worse until, when I combed my hair, the scalp became raw and the ends of the comb-teeth would be wet with blood. Most of the time there was an intolerable itching in a painful, burning way, very much as a bad, raw burn, if deep, will itch and smart when first beginning to heal. Combing my hair was positive torture. My hair was long and tangled terribly because of the blood and scabs. This continued growing worse and over half my hair fell out. I was in despair, really afraid of becoming totally bald.

"Sometimes the pain was so great that, when partially awake, I would scratch the worst places so that my fingertips would be bloody. I could not sleep well and, after being asleep a short time, that awful stinging pain would commence and then I would wake up nearly wild with the torture. A neighbor said it must be salt rheum. Having used Cuticura Soap merely as a toilet soap before, I now decided to order a set of the Cuticura Remedies—Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills. I used them according to directions for perhaps six weeks, then left off, as the disease seemed to be eradicated. But toward spring, eighteen months ago, there was a slight return of the scalp humor. I commenced the Cuticura treatment at once, no had very little trouble. On my scalp I used about one half a cake of Cuticura Soap and half a box of Cuticura Ointment in all. The first time I took six or seven bottles of Cuticura Pills and the last time three bottles—neither an expensive or tedious treatment. Since then I have had no scalp trouble of any kind. Standing up, with my hair unbound, it covers to my knees and had it not been for Cuticura I should doubtless be wholly bald.

This is a voluntary, unsolicited testimonial and I take pleasure in writing it, hoping my experience may help someone else. Miss Lillian Brown, R. F. D. 1, Liberty, Mo., Oct. 29, 1909."

Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the world. Retail Druggists & Chemists. Sole Preps., Boston, Mass.: Small's 1 Free, Cuticura Book on the Skin.

Cherub Devine

By
SEWELL FORD

Copyright, 1909, by Mitchell Kennerly

Perhaps it was best that the countess could not see the grimace of satisfaction which accompanied the words as she departed to get the key to that lock.

Thus it happened something after this fashion: The time was late afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock when the golden autumn day was about to end in a blaze of sapphire light that was soon to fade into an empty arch of turquoise blue. The Countess Veclhi was reading on the upper veranda. It had become well understood in the servants' wing that the brief but disturbing reign of that Devine person was over. Twice he had impudently offered his hand and fortune to the Countess Veclhi, and twice he had been scornfully refused. The parlor maid knew all the details.

Just now Timmins appeared up the left carriage drive. He was on foot and leading a half grown Jersey calf. He had been sent to purchase the calf from the Wilbur-Tremway's head dairyman.

Suddenly the lecherous door swung gently outward on its hinges, while a man, wearing a wrinkled frock coat and a silk hat whose luster was somewhat dimmed by a drapery of cobwebs, stepped cautiously out. Next he glanced in the direction of the house.

Above the shrubbery he could see only the roof and the dormer windows of the upper story, but apparently he was satisfied. Then he turned and looked toward the stables. No one was in sight there, but the man in the silk hat shook his list at the sunset redened windows.

Had he cast a glance directly behind him he would have seen Timmins and the calf just coming into view over the crest of a little rise in the rolling driveway. But he cast no such glance. Evidently he knew of only one exit from the house, the right gateway, by which he had entered, and he at once struck a businesslike gait in making for it.

The discreet Timmins was both startled and puzzled. He did not wish to shout and alarm the folks in the house, for that would reveal the secret of the prisoner. Neither did he wish to release the calf. Yet he could not stand there and watch the man escape. That would never do. What would Cherub Devine say? Timmins' sharp little eyes narrowed meaningfully. With the free end of the rope he gave the Jersey calf a smart smack on the ribs, subtly reminding it of its powerful promenade. The calf jumped ahead. So did Timmins, yanking and wheeling, running and leaping, the pair of them careered impetuously across the velvet lawn, crashing through shrubbery, dodging between trees and making a straight course for the right hand driveway.

We have all seen a man in a picture the consternation of the escaping prisoner when he saw himself headed off by this incongruous tandem. No doubt he instantly recognized Timmins as his jailer, for after a moment's astonished hesitation he doubled on his tracks.

In spite of his lack of knowledge of the geography of the grounds, the fleeing prisoner was not to be caught easily. He dashed down one of the garden paths. So the placid meditations of Mr. Hewington, who was in the garden, were interrupted by the noise of rapidly approaching footsteps. The next moment he had a glimpse of an individual in a frock coat who was sprinting toward him, to speak, undoubtedly Mr. Hewington raised his arms and stepped directly into the middle of the path. That was quite sufficient. The runner dug his heels into the gravel, checked his flight long enough for one dash look and promptly dashed into a clump of golden glow, reappearing to the view of Timmins a second later headed toward the house.

Evidently the man was bewildered or else he would not have failed to observe the by no means inconspicuous figure of Mrs. Timmins looming large in the kitchen door.

"Stop! Mr. Magg! Stop!" shouted Timmins, abandoning all secrecy now.

Mrs. Timmins was not one to wait for explanations at such a time. Timmins wanted somebody stopped, and stopped he should be. With surprising agility she got her huge bulk in motion and moved impulsively and at right angles upon the refugee. As she did this Timmins, dragging the calf and followed by Mr. Hewington, closed in on the other side. But the beseech was fired of the game or else he was wounded. He no longer bounded merrily upon his waddly legs, now ahead, now just behind Timmins. He stood, his forehead straight out and sawed a little at the head rope.

"This left a gap of some ten yards in the line of offense, and through it the hunted man bolted heavily, the tails of his frock coat fluttering a tantalizing white as he sprinted toward freedom. The sabbat Epings was just in time to show the escape with open mouth and staring eyes.

"Take after 'im, you blooming cunnin'!" screamed the disgusted Timmins. "We don't you take after 'im!"

Thus exhorted, the butler did break into a stiff trot, which was so patently ineffective that Timmins might have laughed had the occasion been less serious. As it was, he only gasped out an exclamation of disapproval, threw the calf's lead rope to Mr. Hewington, with the suggestion, "Here you 'old 'im, governor," and darted after his prisoner.

Do you wonder, then, at the amazement of the Countess Veclhi when into the calm of the sunset hour burst this animated procession—first, a man swinging a silk hat in his right hand and panting as he ran; next, Timmins, his elbows close to his sides and his jaw thrust out in approved Marathon style; third, Mrs. Timmins, very red of face and her ample chest billowing up and down like a stormy sea, but getting over the ground quite rapidly; fourth, Epings, his solemn eyes almost popping out of his head, and at the rear her father, vainly trying to urge the reluctant calf into a livelier gait?

The race between Timmins and his elusive prisoner was progressing very prettily. They were keeping to the driveway bow, and the smooth macadam offered fine footing. At once there came to the ears of all concerned the sharp, imperious hoot-hoot of an automobile horn.

The next instant a big red car whirled in through the gate and at sight of the advancing procession in the roadway was brought to a sudden stop. From the back seat of the tonneau stepped forth Cherub Devine. It was the most dramatic and opportune entrance he had ever made in all his career.

The panting fugitive halted, stared apprehensively at the Cherub, then cast a hurried look over his shoulder at Timmins. Quickly he made his escape. Throwing like a flash, he dodged Timmins away. Another moment and he had circled around Mrs. Timmins.

Perhaps he would have been doubling and dodging yet had there not occurred a diversion. The calf in its excitement had begun running in a circle and had wound Mr. Hewington up with the rope so that he could move neither hands nor feet. Mr. Hewington was loudly calling for Epings.

Just then, however, as Epings' turn to try stopping the prisoner. He was already jumping from one side of the road to the other in order to confuse the enemy when Mr. Hewington's cries for assistance distracted his attention from the game. Years of training showed Epings that his master's cries were a signal for his master. A yell of rage from Timmins reached his ears. Epings saw the fugitive about to speed past him. For a second he hesitated. Then, unflinching his long legs, he followed the creature to the winds, he flung himself headlong across the road, wrapped his long arms midway about the frock coat, and amid a cloud of dust, captor and captive came desperately to earth.

As such things go it was rather a stirring finish—for it was all over. "As fine a tackle as I ever saw made," declared the Cherub. "Epings, you're a winner. But how did it all happen? How did he get out?"

The Countess Veclhi, who, with the help of Mrs. Timmins, had separated Mr. Hewington from the calf, came up just in time to hear this question asked.

"I think I can best answer Mr. Devine," said she, with just a suspicion of sarcasm in her tone. "It was I who released this gentleman from the lecherous. Timmins, will you please step one side?"

"That, miss, is such a!" "Timmins!" reproved the countess. "You want to let him go, do you, countess?" queried the Cherub. "I do."

"Then, countess," and Cherub Devine pointed a chubby thumb over his shoulder. "Thank," said the ex-prisoner, and, with a faint grimace in the very face of the baffled Timmins, he started off. Not until he had disappeared around the first curve of the driveway was a word spoken. Then Cherub Devine, who had been regarding the averted face of the countess with a whimsical look in his blue eyes, broke the spell.

"I suppose," he began, "you wonder why we had him shut up in?" "I understand perfectly," said the countess. "He told me all about it himself."

"Oh, then you had a talk with him, eh?" "I did." The countess was looking steadily at him, and she paused as if to invite criticism of her action.

The Cherub shrugged his shoulders. He was beginning to realize that something more than the mere escape of this Count Veclhi had occurred. Could there have been a reconciliation? The Cherub could not credit that.

"I expect he didn't tell you, though. Just why I got so interested in him, did he?" and Mr. Devine favored the countess with one of those instantaneous whisks of his eye which he was wont to express mischievous audacity. "He made everything quite clear," Mr. Devine," said the countess, with significant emphasis. "And, while I can hardly approve of your motives, I can wish you every success in your new enterprise. Only please do not use our teehouse as a prison again, and she walked away.

"Where! Now I ought to be good, I guess!" exclaimed the bewildered Cherub.

As he gazed about the little group of mystified persons he saw Mr. Hewington, still somewhat dazed and a good deal ruffled as to appearance from his recent experience with the calf. The Cherub led Mr. Hewington down the driveway toward the waiting car and observed casually.

"Well, our count is loose again."

"Our count, sir? Why, what do you mean?"

"Now, see here, Hewington, don't you go to being mysterious. I'm twisted up enough as it is. You saw Count Veclhi walk off just now, didn't you?" "Count Veclhi? Where? When?" "Oh, come," said the Cherub. "Didn't you help chase him all over the lot?" "My dear sir, that person was not Count Veclhi!"

"What-a-! Say, let's have that again, will you? Wasn't the count, did you say?"

"Most certainly not, sir. I will admit that at first I supposed it was the count, but no sooner had he been captured than I perceived that some one had made a most stupid blunder."

"But he said he was the count—told me so himself," insisted the Cherub. "My dear Mr. Devine," and Mr. Hewington assumed his most dignified attitude, "if you doubt that I cannot recognize the man who?"

"There, there! I take your word for it. You say he isn't the count, do you?"

"Positively, sir, he is not the count." "Then who the devil is he?" exploded the Cherub.

"That, sir, is a matter in which I am not deeply interested."

"Well, I'll be hanged!" was the Cherub's only comment as he watched Mr. Hewington walk stiffly away.

SOAP BOX AEROPLANE.

Police Save Crazy Man From a Possibly Fatal Fall.

New York, March 9.—The shrieks of a woman on the top floor of a double tenement in Williamsburg and the cries of an insane man fighting off four policemen on the roof for a short time created almost a panic. The insane man was about to fall off the roof in an imitation aeroplane.

The insane man was William Broadhurst who lives on the top floor with his wife and three children. He developed a mania on the subject of aeroplanes.

After arousing Mrs. Broadhurst to tell her to take the three children to the roof with him, as he was going to make his ascent in his new aeroplane. He had constructed an affair of soap boxes and bed sheets. Mrs. Broadhurst notified the police.

Sergeant Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Miller, Benk and Dastell were sent to the roof. Broadhurst was seated in the midst of the soap boxes and bed sheets and waved them aside. He shouted that he was going to sail away. He was finally subdued.

TWO-CENT FARES UPHELD

West Virginia Court Holds Law Constitutional in That State.

Charleston, W. Va., March 8.—The supreme court of appeals holds that the two-cent fare bill passed by the legislature in 1907 is constitutional. The suit to test the law was brought by the Coal and Coke Railroad company, which operates a short and very expensive line in the central part of the state, and the decision of the supreme court is that on account of these facts it is exempted from the operation of the law, but that it is constitutional and applies to all other roads operating in the state. There was a dissenting opinion from Judge Williams, who holds that the law is unconstitutional on its face.

HIS FIRST YEAR A GREAT SUCCESS.

President Taft Has Pleased Republicans and Confounded His Enemies.

TOOK ADVICE FROM PENROSE

The Professional Uplifters Are Out of Ammunition And the Redemption of Party Pledges Goes On Apace—A Regular Republican.

Special Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The week just passed was the greatest by long odds in the history of the Taft administration. It recorded the first year's work of that administration. Events at Washington have disclosed that President Taft is a regular Republican. His movements have been in substantial accord with the regular organization of the Republican party yet his policies have been broad enough to cover the very best interests of the whole people of the country. He has faced a great variety of rather perplexing questions, not a few of them provoked and advanced by the discontents in the Republican party, yet he has solved all the problems which confronted him with admirable courage and invariably to the greatest interest of the greatest number of his constituents, regardless of party lines.

The most convincing proof that President Taft's administration for its first year has been a substantial success is to be found quickest in the condition of the country at large. When President Taft was inaugurated the whole country was afloat with discontent. Business was stagnant. Money had been withdrawn from the regular channels of trade and public confidence was thoroughly shaken. The outlook was decidedly gloomy. It was President Taft's job to change this whole condition. He had been elected President by an overwhelming vote and his party had pledged a restoration of the regular Republican conditions throughout the country. The President has stood fast and strong for the redemption of all the pledges of the platform on which he was elected and the changed conditions are simply the proof of the pudding.

President Taft was not pledged to advocate tariff reform according to Democratic theories. He was pledged to tariff revision which would guarantee a prompt and effective restoration of good times and that pledge has been redeemed in a most satisfactory way. Special interests have a few grievances against the recently enacted tariff law, but the people who must earn their bread before they eat it are delighted. They have little if anything more to ask of the Washington administration, yet all the other pledges made in the Republican platform are being redeemed just as the tariff revision. Of course Mr. Taft was compelled to depend upon the regular Republicans in congress in order to have the party's pledges redeemed and therefore he is a Republican and a good one at that.

When President Taft had the courage to stand out against the advertising mediums and with his postmaster general suggest that those advertising periodicals and professional uplifters should pay reasonable postage a flame of red fire was lighted throughout the whole country. Mr. Taft and his administration were written down as failures and not a few good people were more or less convinced that the professional uplifters of the country were probably right. These uplifters muckraked about until they found the Pinchot-Ballinger controversy and then, indeed, were they entirely happy. Pinchot was made their one great asset, but just the day before Mr. Taft had concluded his first year as President Mr. Pinchot, on the witness stand in the congressional inquiry being made into the charges he and the uplifters had made against a member of the President's cabinet, fell down in a most deplorable way and admitted under oath that his charges against Secretary Ballinger were based on hearsay. However, that Secretary Ballinger had in his work been obeying the law as it had been written and that Pinchot and his fellows had been conserving the resources of the country just as they thought the laws should have been written. After all the fuss and feathers raised by Pinchot and his uplifters the fall was a great one, indeed. The government at Washington still lives. The Taft administration lives there also, but it is not "still" by a large majority.

As if in celebration of the first year of the existing administration the United States senate on Saturday last passed finally the postal savings bank bill, another important platform pledge. It was passed almost entirely as President Taft recommended it to congress and as it has gone to the lower house of congress it is almost certain of speedy passage there. All of the Republican senators and one Democrat, Mr. Chamberlain, of Oregon, voted for the bill. The conspicuous features of the measure follow:

Board of trustees of postal savings bank: Secretary of the treasury, postmaster general and attorney general. Every postoffice that issues money

DYSPEPSIA, GAS, HEARTBURN AND ALL STOMACH DISEASES VANISH.

A Little Diapyspin Makes Your Out-of-Order Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion, Dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapyspin. If your stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a re-inforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak stomachs should take a little Diapyspin occasionally, and there will be no more indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach, or Belching or undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking a little Diapyspin.

Go to your druggist a druggist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapyspin now, and you will always go to this table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

orders and such others as the postmaster general may designate will be savings banks. Any person over 16 years old may open an account. Married women will control their own accounts. An account may be started with $1. Not more than $100 may be deposited in any one month. No account shall exceed $500. Two per cent interest will be paid on deposits. Funds deposited must pay the government at least 2 1/2 per cent interest. In time of war or any other contingency involving the credit of the government the President may invest the funds in government bonds bearing at least 2 1/2 per cent interest.

It will be recalled that recently Senator Boies Penrose in a speech punctured the haubles of the professional uplifters by showing the danger involved in legislation based wholly on sentiment. Senator Penrose contended for a strict observance of the constitution and urged a constitutional administration of the affairs of government. On this sensible advice the President has whipped his administration enemies to a standstill. In the President's victory Pennsylvania is justly proud. Pennsylvania Republicans are justly proud of the part their accepted leader, Senator Penrose, has had in the President's magnificent success. When the uplifters were most industrious in beating their tom-toms and clouding the administration with the dust they were able to raise no one stood closer and with more confidence to the President than did the senior senator from Pennsylvania. Senator Penrose certainly served the President and the regular Republicans of the nation a valuable service. All the people are surely coming around to the side of "Big Bill" of White House hill. He is a bill from every possible manurement. His only real danger is the humane society. Its services are likely to be invoked for the protection of the animals of discontent or the helpless political children from whom he seems to have been taking playthings.

A few years ago he was introduced to her and it was a case of love at first sight on both sides. Miss Gratz is now thirteen years old and the baron is thirty. Her father is a wealthy importer. The baron is wealthy in his own name.

FOUR SHOT BY TRACTION MEN.

Philadelphia Car Employees

FERCE RIOT AT FRANKFORD

Car With Crew Heavily Armed Is Rushed Through Mob of 10,000 Persons—Employers of Philadelphia Issued Ultimatum to Strikers.

Philadelphia, March 9.—A girl and three men were shot last night in a pistol battle in Frankford between employees of the transit company and a mob of 10,000 strikers and sympathizers.

Early in the evening the motormen and conductors of cars along Frankford avenue were cursed by crowds strung along the thoroughfare for a mile. When it grew dark bricks were thrown.

After several cars had been hunted into the Frankford avenue barns with their windows broken a car loaded with armed men was started from the barns. At Frankford avenue and Overington street, the car, going slowly, was attacked ferociously. Stones and bricks rattled against its sides and whizzed through the windows. The sidewalks were jammed with trouble makers. No police were in sight.

Employees Armed With Revolvers. There were fifteen men in the car and they were armed with revolvers. They shot while the car was in motion. A fourteen-year-old girl named Helen May, whose home is in Ceral street, was hit in the leg by a bullet. The shout was raised that she was dead. The mob renewed its attack more violently. The garrison continued firing.

Three men were dropped between Overington avenue and Allegheny avenue. John Maloney, Frank Bromley and Michael Osborne, all shot in the leg. At Allegheny avenue the car was swarmed into a Y and started back toward the barn. It ran a point of bricks and some of its defenders were knocked senseless and cut about the face and head. The car returned to the Frankford barns, racing between walls of rioters. A large force of police were rushed to Frankford in response to a riot call. The trouble was over and the avenue pretty well cleared when the reserves arrived.

Unless the men who broke their agreements by leaving down their tools return to work within the week the mill owners have determined to close their factories indefinitely. As things stand the textile workers, 20,000 in number, the main body of the strikers are not likely to get a chance to work when they will need work most. Other laboring men, such as the builders, will be in the same predicament.

Strikers Must Show Up Monday. Seventy-five per cent of the manu- facturers of hosiery voted to shut their mills until next Monday. Monday was set as the day when the strikers must return to work, or forever shut away.

Ten of the biggest carpet and tape- try mills in the city have given no- tice that they would keep their fac- tories closed indefinitely if their men did not get on the job next Monday. Their attitude is approved by sixty proprietors of textile mills.

The strike tide may now be said to be on the ebb. The movement ap- peared to have been at its highest in Monday when there were at least 10,000 men out. Employees are reporting for work quietly.

Although the aggregate of the strikers in large, only a few industries have been seriously affected to date. Hundreds of shops and stores have lost so small a number of men that they have been able to continue busi- ness without much trouble.

It cannot be said at this time that the sympathetic strike is petering out. However, the movement has failed to gain.

DEAN BILL DEFEATED

Rose Option Law Adherents Carry Day in Ohio Legislature.

Columbus, O., March 9.—Senator Dean's proposition to exempt either voting west from the operation of the Rose law when the test of the county votes dry, went to a vote in the senate without discussion and was de- feated by a vote of 17 to 18.

No amount of argument by the wets could break down the odds against them. That is as near as the wets will ever get to repealing or amend- ing the Rose county local option law, said Wayne H. Wheeler, superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league in speaking of the defeat of the Dean bill in the senate.

Work For Thousands. Youngstown, O., March 9.—By the starting of the new tube plant of the Republic Iron and Steel company and the new sheet mill and tube mills of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube com- pany 2,000 more men will be given employment.

LATEST PICTURE OF ROOSEVELT, TAKEN IN THE WILDS OF AFRICA.

Khartoum, Egypt, March 9.—Ac- cording to all reports which reach Khartoum from the banks of the Nile down which Colonel Roosevelt and his party are proceeding on their way to this city and Cairo, his appearance is that of a man who has spent years in the wilderness, not merely several months. Before finally quitting the wilds for civilized life he and his party are stopping off for a day's shooting wherever the hunting is reported to be good. Mr. Roosevelt is quartered aboard the government steamer Day. The picture of President Roosevelt is reproduced from the March number of Scribner's Magazine in courtesy of Charles Scribner's sons and is copy- righted by Scribner's.

STATEWIDE STRIKE

Now Being Talked of By Labor Leaders at New Castle, Pa.

New Castle, Pa., March 9.—That some action in connection with the Philadelphia strike will be taken during the convention of the Pennsylvania state federation of labor is now certain. President E. Greenwald of Lan- caster said the convention before ad- journment would show the people of the entire world that the union cannot be ignored. He said the con- vention would go on record with some important action in connection with the Philadelphia strike.

A telegram was read from J. J. Murphy, president of the Central Labor union of Philadelphia. Murphy asked the convention to withhold action on the strike until President W. D. Mahon of the Amalgamated Asso- ciation of Street and Electric Rail- ways Employees and a committee ar- rived.

Action of the strike is therefore expected. The only thing which the convention did today was to pass res- olutions of a mild nature endorsing the Philadelphia movement, but it is expected that the convention will take some action toward endorsing a gen- eral strike throughout the state.

ROOT ACTS AS DICTATOR

Tells New York State Politicians
What Must Be Done.

Washington, March 9.—Ellihu Root assumed the leadership of the Repub- lican party of New York state when he addressed a telegram to Senator Daverport at Albany, declaring that under no circumstances should the Republicans of the state name as their spokesman anyone recognized as un- friendly to Governor Hughes.

Mr. Root's action is the first step in the direction of the reorganization of the party in New York. It means that the Woodruff-Barnes combination is doomed; that the new organization that is to succeed it is to uphold the hands of Governor Hughes, and that every available force is to be put to work to bring order out of the present chaotic conditions. It is the general expectation that before many days have passed Timothy L. Woodruff will announce his retirement from the of- fice of Republican state chairman.

BIG VOTE FOR STRIKE

Firemen Out of Chicago Demand
Wage Increase.

Chicago, March 9.—W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Loco- motive Firemen, announced that the vote on the proposition to strike if wages were not raised on all roads west, northwest and northeast of Chicago, had been completed. The vote, he said, showed 96 per cent, or 20,000 men, in favor of strike. He said that 88 per cent of the nonunion apprentices also voted to strike.

Conferees with the General Man- agers association will be held March 10 in Chicago. Fifty roads are said to be affected.

Demand More Wages. Lafayette, Ind., March 9.—Six hundred machinists, boiler makers and blacksmiths at the Mojon rail- road shops in this city made a de- mand for an increase in wages. The men want four cents an hour in- crease.

DRASTIC ORDERS FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS

Madison, Wis., March 9.—No- tice was posted on the bulletin board of the State university by the faculty in which specific or- ders are issued to the students to bathe at least once a week, man- icure their fingers often and make occasional changes of un- derwear.

This notice was posted for the benefit, it is said, of the short-course students in the de- partment of agriculture. The or- der has aroused considerable dis- cussion, the students regarding it as a slur on their personal habits.

Shape in Five Minutes.

If your stomach is continually kick- ing up a disturbance; you feel bloated and distressed; if you belch gas and sour food into the mouth, then you need Mono's Stomach Tablets, the best prescription for indigestion ever written.

Mono's stomach tablets give in- stant relief of course, but they do more. They drive out the poisonous gases that cause fermentation of food and thoroughly clean, renovate and strengthen the stomach so that it can readily digest food without artificial aid.

Mono's stomach tablets are guar- anteed to cure indigestion, acute or chronic, or money back. They mean that nervousness, dizziness and bil- iousness will disappear. Druggists everywhere and A. A. Clarke sell Mono's for 50c a large box. Test samples free from Hoth's Mono's, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE REAL TEST

Why Some Men Are Successful and Others Are Not.

The real test of a man is his stay- ing power—his ability to go through with what he undertakes. More men fail for lack of this quality of "stickto- itiveness" than for any other reason. If, for instance, you open an account with the First National Bank of Con- nelsville, with, let us say $5, and a few dollars to it and then quit, you will fail to achieve independence, but if you have staying power—if you con- tinue to deposit a certain proportion of every dollar you make, it is simply a question of time until you will be forever beyond the fear of poverty. If you have no account, or if you have opened an account and neglected it, you had better begin now and see what persistent, systematic saving will do for you. One dollar starts you at the First National—4% interest.

IN BALLINGER CASE.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8.—James R. Garfield, former Secretary of this In- terior, son of a President of the United States and possible Republican candidate for governor of Ohio, was called to the stand to testify in the Congressional investigation of the of- ficial conduct of the man who occupies his former office, Secretary of the Interior Ballinger. ## Facts For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so suc- cessful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg- etable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files con- taining over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made ex- clusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg- etable Compound had done for other suffering women, I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. Within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefits to be derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. John G. Moldan, 2115 Second St., North Minneapolis, Minn.

Women who are suffering from those dis- tressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg- etable Compound to restore their health.
